Abuse and Neglect of Persons with Disabilities

What is the Disabled Persons Protection Commission?

The Disabled Persons Protection Commission (DPPC) is an independent state agency created by legislation in 1987. Massachusetts General Law chapter 19C (M.G.L. c. 19C) established the DPPC to protect adults with mental and physical disabilities, between the ages of 18 and 59, from abuse or neglect by their caregiver(s) whether in a private, family or state care setting. The DPPC enabling statute fills the gap between the child abuse (through the age of 17) and elder abuse (age 60 and over) statutes.

Mission Statement

The mission of the DPPC is:

"To protect adults with disabilities from the abusive acts or omissions of their caregivers through investigation oversight, public awareness and prevention."

Role of the D.P.P.C.

In cases of suspected physical, emotional and sexual abuse or neglect of a person with mental or physical disabilities, the DPPC:

- Receives and screens reports of suspected abuse, neglect and deaths through a 24-Hour Hotline
- Conducts investigations
- Oversees investigations conducted on DPPC's behalf by other state agencies: Department of Mental Retardation (DMR), Department of Mental Health (DMH) and the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission (MRC)
- Ensures that the appropriate protective services are provided when abuse has been substantiated or risk is determined
- Provides training and education for service providers, law enforcement personnel and the public
- Provides assistance to the public in clarifying the presence of abuse and neglect

Vulnerability

According to the United States Department of Justice, there are 54 million Americans living with disabilities. Persons with disabilities are some of our most vulnerable citizens. The vulnerability of a person with a disability is heightened especially when they are dependent upon a caretaker. Assistance with daily living activities such as bathing, dressing and personal hygiene fosters dependence and requires close personal contact between the caretaker and a person with a disability. Persons with disabilities may have an impairment of those abilities critical for self-defense and avoidance of violence, including communication or physical challenges. These situations are unique and place persons with disabilities at greater risk of sexual assault and abuse.

What Is A Mandated Reporter?

Mandated Reporters are persons who, as a result of their profession, are more likely to be aware of abuse of persons with disabilities. Mandated Reporters are required, by law, to report cases of suspected abuse to the DPPC when they have a suspicion that a person with a disability is suffering from a reportable condition of abuse or neglect.

In Massachusetts, mandated reporting is an individual responsibility. Generally speaking, it is up to the individual reporter to be certain that a report of suspected abuse or neglect is filed. Mandated Reporters should not rely on others to file reports for them.

Who are Mandated Reporters?

- * Medical personnel
- * Social workers
- * Police officers
- * Daycare workers
- * Guidance counselors
- * Public/private school teachers
- * Employees of private agencies providing services to people with disabilities
- * Employees of state agencies in the Executive Office of Health & Human Services
- * Medical examiners
- * Foster parents
- * Dentists
- * Family counselors
- * Psychologists
- * Educational administrators

How To File A DPPC Report

"If you suspect abuse or neglect, trust your feelings and address the situation."

What Is Reportable?

The standard for reporting suspected abuse or neglect in Massachusetts is any situation where there is a reasonable suspicion to believe that abuse or neglect exists. Neglect may include patient on patient abuse.

Mandated Reporter Protection

Mandated Reporters are immune from civil or criminal liability as a result of making a report. Non-mandated Reporters are also protected providing the report was made in "good faith." In addition, the DPPC will conduct investigations into allegations that people have been retaliated against for providing information to the DPPC.

Failure to Report

Failure to report incidences of suspected abuse and neglect can result in severe consequences for the alleged victim, other potential victims, and the Mandated Reporter.

In Massachusetts, if a Mandated Reporter fails to file a report, they are subject to a fine of up to $1,000.

The State Police Detective Unit

During fiscal year 1998, a State Police Detective Unit (SPDU) was established within the Commission. The SPDU is comprised of a lieutenant, sergeant and three troopers.

The SPDU is physically located within the offices of the DPPC. The troopers of the SPDU review 100% of all complaints received by the Commission to determine which of these complaints constitute criminal activity against a person with a disability.

Contacting The Police

Abuse or neglect committed against a person with a disability might also be a crime. Call your local police immediately if you think a crime, such as an assault, harassment, threat or larceny, has been committed.

In an emergency, contact your local police department or dial 911.

Statutory Definitions

Abuse: a serious physical or emotional injury to a disabled person, which results from an act or omission, including unconsented to sexual activity.

Act or Omission: An Act is defined as "...a caretaker's intentional, reckless or negligent action." An Omission is defined as "...a caretaker's failure to take action to protect or provide for the daily living needs of a disabled person."

Caretaker: is defined as "A disabled person's parent, guardian, or other person or agency responsible for the disabled person's health or welfare by providing assistance in meeting a daily living need, whether in the same home as the disabled person, a relative's home, a foster home, or any other day or residential setting."

Disabled Person: a person between the ages of 18 and 59, who is mentally retarded, or otherwise mentally or physically disabled and, as a result of his/her disability, is wholly or partially dependent upon others to meet daily living needs.

Mandated Reporters: persons who, as a result of their profession, are more likely to be aware of abuse of persons with disabilities, and so are required to report cases of suspected abuse to the DPPC when they have reasonable cause to believe that a disabled person is suffering from a reportable condition of abuse (see list of Mandated Reporters). Note: Mandated reporters are immune from any civil or criminal liability as a result of making a report, and are subject to a fine of up to $1,000 for failure to file a report.

M.G.L. c. 19C: a Massachusetts state law that provides for the investigation and remediation of abuse of adults with disabilities.

Abuse Prevention Strategies

- Have knowledge of the nature and symptoms of abuse and neglect
- Train an Abuse Team how to handle suspected cases of abuse and neglect
- Promote awareness of DPPC and post phone numbers and poster
- Have the Team educate employees about the DPPC and the reporting requirements
- Establish procedures for protective service intervention, including referrals to law enforcement authorities
- Establish trusting relationships with self-advocates in your care
- Develop programs that empower people with disabilities to resist abuse, such as providing information about:
 - * Stranger danger
 - * Communication skills
 - * Individual rights
 - * Relationships
 - * Sex education
 - * Self-defense
 - * Getting help from trusted individuals
 - * Safety planning
 - * Assertiveness training
 - * Improving self-esteem

The Building Partnerships Initiative

In May of 1999 a partnership was formed in Massachusetts between law enforcement and human service agencies in an effort to effectively and efficiently address abuse, neglect and crimes committed against persons with disabilities. The "Building Partnerships for the Protection of Persons with Disabilities" arose as crimes committed against persons with disabilities were not being recognized or reported to the appropriate authorities.

This initiative, which uses a multidisciplinary approach to address crimes against persons with disabilities, was implemented thanks to the foresight of Elizabeth D. Scheibel, District Attorney of the Northwestern District, Gerald J. Morrissey, Jr., Commissioner of the Department of Mental Retardation (DMR), the commitment of Nancy A. Alterio, Executive Director of the Disabled Persons Protection Commission (DPPC) and the support of William D. O'Leary, then Secretary of the Executive Office of Health and Human Services (EOHHS).

The Memorandum of Understanding

The initiative, funded through the Executive Office of Public Safety (EOPS) Byrne grant, is housed at the Massachusetts District Attorneys Association (MDAA). This partnership brings together, through formal Memorandums of Understanding (MOU) with each District Attorney, the human service and law enforcement communities in each county.

Goals of the Initiative

- Provide protection, treatment and continuity of care for persons with disabilities who are victims of a crime
- Increase awareness of crimes being committed against persons with disabilities
- Increase communication and cooperation between law enforcement and agencies providing services to people with disabilities
- Ensure that crimes committed against persons with disabilities are promptly reported, investigated by trained law enforcement personnel and prosecuted by the district attorneys

The Steering Committee

A "Building Partnerships" steering committee, chaired by District Attorney Scheibel, was formed to facilitate the grant's activities and has:

- Provided statewide training for local and state police, civil investigators, victim witness advocates, assistant district attorneys and human service providers in recognizing, reporting, investigating and prosecuting crimes committed against persons with disabilities
- Filed legislation which calls for enhanced penalties for those who commit crimes against persons with disabilities
- Developed "A Practical Guide to the Reporting, Investigation and Prosecution of Crimes Committed Against Persons with Disabilities" with the Massachusetts Continuing Legal Education (MCLE)

Criminal Investigations

With the inception of the MOU, in fiscal year 2004, 880 cases were investigated criminally resulting in 130 criminal complaints. Of those 880 criminal cases, 350 were crimes of a sexual nature. The following graph depicts the increase in abuse reports referred to the district attorneys for criminal investigation and possible prosecution for fiscal years 1997 through 2004.

The "Building Partnerships" initiative continues to enhance the safety and well being of persons with disabilities and provides the groundwork for effective prevention strategies. The initiative has changed the way we, in Massachusetts, address crimes committed against persons with disabilities and it affords victims with disabilities the same protections and rights as the public at large.
